THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

The Strike

Washington, Dec. 1.—The people of the United States should understand the full meaning of this strike of the United Automobile workers against the General Motors. For it is much more significant than any previous strike. It is the climax. It is a strike of the biggest union against the biggest corporation and the effect on the economic and political future of the country is hard to exaggerate.

SEEMS important that the people of the United States should understand the full meaning of this strike of the United Automobile workers against the General Motors. For it is much more significant than any previous strike. It is the climax. It is a strike of the biggest union against the biggest corporation and the effect on the economic and political future of the country is hard to exaggerate.

ONLY the automobile industry is almost completely paralyzed by strike but many other industries are affected, including, of course, the great steel industry, of which the automobile factories are the largest customers, and a strike which is scheduled to follow this.

IN no other way could reconstruction be more seriously retarded than the whole program of private enterprise to resume civilian production and provide jobs be more dangerously interrupted. Regardless of the merits of the controversy, these facts must be conceded.

THE other hand, should the union successfully resist, the damage to the CIO would be very great. Its prestige would be damaged, its power diminished and the radical element in the union badly jolted. It would be the CIO failure. Congress would

Admits Feigning Amnesia Attack "For Tactical Reasons"

INTRIGUE DISCLOSURE

By Pierre J. Hux
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

NUERNBERG, Dec. 1.—(INS)—The Allied War Crimes Tribunal announced today that the trial of former deputy Fuehrer Rudolf Hess would continue despite objections of defense counsel.

The admission followed Hess' admission in court yesterday that the amnesia from which he apparently had suffered since his "peace mission" to England in 1941 was feigned "for tactical reasons."

The Court also heard charges that the German High Command approved Hitler's systematic murder of Russian prisoners on the eastern front.

Resuming his disclosures of intrigue in the Nazi inner circle, German intelligence agent Maj. Gen. Erwin Lahousen today denied any knowledge of diplomat Franz Von Papen's possible association with plots to assassinate Hitler.

Lahousen charged yesterday that German Field Marshal Gen. Wilhelm Keitel ordered the assassination of French generals Maxime Weyand and Henri Giraud, whom he feared might rally French resistance to the Nazis.

The plot was thwarted by Adm. Wilhelm Canaris, German intelligence chief whose own plans to murder Hitler ended in a hangman's noose at the Dachau concentration camp, Lahousen declared.

The witness described himself as one of the few key men alive who worked with Canaris, the story-book spy who betrayed his former mistress Mata Hari in the first world war after the Java-born Dutch dancer's espionage work in France.

The officer, only witness to testify yesterday, said Canaris kept a diary "to inform Germany and the world once and for all how the leaders of Germany were guilty—these were Canaris' own words."

This disclosure of calculating intrigue within the Nazi inner circle preceded Hess' dramatic courtroom announcement that his amnesia was feigned "for tactical reasons."

The former No. 2 Nazi admission came as the tribunal was about

TRUMAN AND INFLATION

The report of President Truman on the progress of reconversion contains many misstatements and absurdities, but no part of it is more misleading than the last paragraph:

"Inflationary pressures are still great, and danger signals pointing to a further building up through the winter and spring are a rise of real estate, wholesale and raw materials prices. We must continue to hold the line. We cannot permit inflation."

There are three basic misconceptions in this statement, all of them diverting attention from the true situation.

First is the idea that inflation is in the future tense. It is not. It has been going on for twelve years. In that period the dollar has lost 75 per cent of its value. The mortgage of national debt on the physical assets of the nation has risen from about 6 per cent of the total to approximately 100 per cent.

Second is the implication that controlling prices controls inflation. Nothing could be less accurate. Price changes may or may not be connected with inflation; competition lowers them, even during inflation, and low supply drives them up.

Even when, as at present, inflation is the cause of rising prices, the prices themselves are only a symptom. Attacking prices instead of attacking the causes of inflation is just as wrong as it would be for a doctor to treat a patient's fever instead of the pneumonia which produced it.

Third misstatement is the very direct boast of the President that he and his administration are committed to fighting inflation. They are not doing anything of the sort.

Leaving it to the Truman bureaucracy to carry on this fight is a case which the Italian proverb was coined to fit—"making a gardener out of the goat."

Truman is not the enemy of inflation; he is the greatest advocate of it in the country.

In his eight months in office he has consistently refused to do the things which would curb inflation, and had made one recommendation after another which would speed up the dizzy spiral started by his predecessor.

The man who tells a nation which is up to its neck in debt, "we are rich," as Truman did in his recent Health message, can hardly claim either to understand inflation or to be fighting it.

The way to stop inflation in the United States is simple enough, but is a matter which will hardly appeal either to the President himself or his patronage-hungry associates such as National Democratic Chairman Hannegan.

That method would be to balance the national budget—to carve national spending down to a level where a workable scale of taxes would cover the costs and leave a margin to be applied to the national debt. It is as simple as that.

If Truman really wanted to combat inflation, he would start at once cutting down the number of Federal employees. There are now about 3,600,000 of these—half a million more than at the close of the war. Three out of every four are unnecessary.

Reducing the number to about 1,000,000, which would be ample for national needs, would carve the an-

GESUALDI ADVANCED

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 1.—Eugene James Glynn, Jefferson avenue, Bristol, Pa., and other men serving on the USS "Millicoma," a fleet oiler, helped her run up a Pacific war record of more than two years of operation before she was assigned to the occupation forces, then sent back to the States for decommissioning.

LATEST NEWS BULLETINS

Claims Yamashita Approved Executions

Manila—A Japanese colonel swore today that Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita had "nodded" approval of procedure whereby 600 Filipinos were executed without a trial in Manila last December. This vital testimony was given by Col. Hideo Nishihara, called as a rebuttal witness at the War Crimes Trial of the former Jap commander in the Philippines.

The crime-like officer told this story from the stand: Nishihara contacted Yamashita, informed him that about 1000 persons suspected of guerrilla warfare were under arrest, but there was insufficient time to try them. The colonel suggested that military tribunal officers might cooperate with the military police in handling them. Yamashita made no suggestion, but nodded his assent and 600 were then executed.

Asked if the 600 were accorded proper trial or courtmartial Nishihara said: "I cannot say that they were legally tried."

Woman Warned To Stay Away From Her Paramour

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 1.—Warning her to stay away from her paramour, who is the father of her seven-months old son, President Judge Hiram H. Keller on Wednesday sustained a demurrer in the trial of Bruno Nonini, 41 Schumacher Drive, Bristol Terrace No. 1, and discharged the jury. An automobile which Nonini was operating killed two people when the machine struck four walking on the roadway leading from Route 13 to the Burlington-Bristol bridge.

Nonini, who was driving a car on the highway leading from the Bristol-Burlington Bridge to the Bristol Pike May 28, 1944, killed Alphonso Walukas, 23, and Claire Divincenzo, 19, as they were strolling along the highway from a dance which had been held at the Rohm & Haas Co. clubhouse.

The defendant was driving his car after the operating privilege had been revoked.

Pleading guilty to the charge of driving his car without an operator's license, the defendant was sentenced to pay a fine of $500 and the costs of prosecution, and a prison sentence of six months was suspended on condition that he pay the fine and costs. He was placed on probation for one year.

A witness for the Commonwealth, S/Sgt. Jesse Bartel, 34, Garden street, Bristol, who appeared in court on crutches and his leg in braces, testified another car was passing and blinded the defendant.

"Less than ten feet ahead of us we saw the four people in front of the car on the highway, Sgt. Bartel, who was riding in the car said, 'Nonini applied the brakes but it was too close.'

"Mr. Nonini got out after striking them, and I transferred to the driver's seat and backed the car to where three of them were lying. Mr. Nonini had one glass of beer in Burlington."

Pvt. Michael Esitka, Pa. State Police, who investigated the case, testified the defendant's license was revoked in 1941. The officer said he smelled intoxicating beverage on the defendant's breath, but that he didn't see him until several hours after the accident.

The accident happened about 1:30 in the morning and two witnesses—a girl and a boy—who narrowly escaped with their lives testified they were laughing and talking and neither heard the approach of the car coming up behind them or noticed the gleam of the headlights.

Mr. Johnson spoke of his experience as a member of the armed services and as a court stenographer in numerous army court martial trials.

The differences and similarities between army trials and judicial trials in civilian life were clearly explained. "In civil judicial trials the defendant is considered innocent until proved guilty, but in the court martial it appears that the defendant is guilty until proved innocent."

The three types of court, martial were explained. First the summary court martial or the lowest form of court, which consists of three to five members, and tries minor offenses. This court may make sentences of imprisonment at hard labor for one month, or levy fines of two-thirds of the G. I. pay for one month or both.

Commonwealth, Lacking Sufficient Evidence, Discharges Jury

TWO PEOPLE KILLED

Defendant, Driving Car Minus License, Strikes Four Pedestrians

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 1.—The Commonwealth lacking sufficient evidence to convict defendant, a Bristol man, on two charges of involuntary manslaughter, President Judge Hiram H. Keller on Wednesday sustained a demurrer in the trial of Bruno Nonini, 41 Schumacher Drive, Bristol Terrace No. 1, and discharged the jury. SATURDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1945
WAITING ON RUSSIA
One school of thought in Washington holds to the theory that America will not reach an understanding with Russia for a decade. The dominant quality in Russian diplomacy and domestic policies now is fear, proponents of this theory explain. The Reds are shipping entire factories out of Germany, Manchuria, Poland and the Balkans. The Communist leaders will keep Russians on a low standard of living until heavy industries have been built up to provide facilities for mass production of consumer goods, it is held. After distribution of consumer goods has been placed on an efficient basis, so this theory continues, it is possible that there will be sufficient contentment in Russia to make elections safe from the viewpoint of the clique of Communists in power. Then Russia may be willing to join nations with representative governments—or so this school of thought professes to believe.

In the meantime the government in Washington plans to use both firmness and patience with Russia. It will continue to protest against high-handed policies of the Soviet in bordering states, but will go no farther. The administration evidently has adopted a policy of waiting until Russian rehabilitation to see if cooperation can then be obtained.

POSTWAR CRIME

Prophecies that the end of the war would see a sharp increase in crime are being borne out. Murders and robberies figure increasingly in the news and this is not merely because crime is being given more prominence on the front pages now that the battlefronts are quiet. A survey of metropolitan centers shows an alarming upsurge in crime and the Federal Bureau of Investigation estimates that there has been an increase of from 10 to 15 per cent in recent weeks.

It is not difficult to put a finger on the reason for the rise. A war which produced hundreds of thousands of disrupted homes was destined to leave its quota of jealousies, domestic frictions and boys and girls who have been growing up without parental guidance or restraint.

But it is not the causes but the cures which must chiefly concern the nation now. The mistakes that have produced this increase in crime cannot be undone. What must be done is to provide means of coping with the situation as it exists.

This calls for an increase in the strength and activity of police forces, particularly in metropolitan centers, but that is only the first step. What is needed also is an expansion of the agencies providing guidance and healthy recreational activities for the younger generation. This is not a problem which can be left to the police and to the courts. Every parent and every individual citizen must shoulder his or her share of the responsibility for clearing up this part of the war's debris.

Moscow "newspapers" continue to harp on the theme that all the world is out of step but Russia.

Today's Quiet Moment

By Rev. Paul R. Ronge

Pastor

Zion Lutheran Church

O God, I praise thee, for thou art the merciful Parent of all men; and I beseech thee to have compassion upon and to save every individual of the human family. Be pleased to bless my friends, to reward my benefactors, and to take into thy holy keeping the family with which I am connected. Visit with thy light and comfort all who are afflicted with sickness and pain. Console and cheer all who are distressed in mind. Provide for the relief of those in want. Be near to all who are in circumstances of peril. Support and strengthen every upright soul. Give rest and joy to every weary heart. Prosper our citizens, preserve our liberties and help us to be a righteous people. This we ask through Christ who gave himself for us. Amen.

ROHM & HAAS WINS OVER ROEBLING IN THE SECOND HALF

Victory Moves Chemical Mixers Into Tie For Third Place

FINAL SCORE, 49 TO 48

Long Shot by Linzenbold
Gives the Winners
The Victory

TRENTON, Dec. 1.—Rallying in the second half of the game, the Rohm & Haas team nosed out the J. A. Roebling five, 49-48, last night, on the Washington School floor.

The victory moved the chemical mixers into a deadlock for third place in the Mercer County Industrial League.

A long shot from past the half-way mark of the floor by Alex Linzenbold with two seconds left to play gave the Bristol boys the victory. The Rohm & Haas team was trailing, 48-47, when Linzenbold made his shot.

The double-decker was Linzenbold's sixteenth point of the night, one less than "Pete" Rossi, of the losers, who scored 7 field goals and three fouls. "Mike" Rossi, the other half of the brother act, scored 13 counters for a total of 30 points for the brothers.

Rohm & Haas won the game from the foul mark, getting 11 points in twelve tries. Cahall, DeWitt and Rice had perfect scores from the gift line while Linzenbold missed one out of three.

Hess Goes "Chipper," Shows Keen Interest

Nuernberg, Germany—Rudolf Hess has gone chipper. Resumption of testimony before the Allied War Crimes Tribunal today revealed an animated Hess. He had dropped the vacant stare assumed while supposedly suffering from amnesia, and conversed in the liveliest manner with his fellow-prisoners.

Herman Goering and Joachim Von Ribbentrop were singled out for special attention by Hess. The men who had listened to his confession of faked illness with open mouths, today conversed with their comrade with sly, knowing smiles.

The new Hess personality was also evident when he adjusted earphones to listen carefully to testimony. No book was evident at his side for the first time since the trial began.

The Court recessed to consider a proposal by Otto Stahmer, counsel for Goering, that all 20 defendants be permitted to answer witnesses personally. The motion was opposed by Chief U. S. Prosecutor Robert H. Jackson, who said such procedure would turn the trial into "a show."

on the spot. Of course, he is anxious to end the strike but if he yields to CIO solicitations he publicly exhibits a subservience that will cost him the respect of a majority of the people. If he does not yield, he will affront the CIO bosses with whom Democratic Chairman Hannegan is playing political ball. The choice, however, may seem a little less painful if he reflects that the CIO group cannot leave him because it has no place else to go.

to rule on his capacity to stand trial with the 19 other defendants. "My memory is again in order," Hess said calmly. "I simulated loss of memory for tactical reasons."

"I want to carry full responsibility for what I did. I feel the court is not legal, but that is another thing. My lawyer acted in good faith. I told him I had lost my memory."

her oil tanks were filled with salt water ballast. On her cargo deck, she carried trucks, landing barges, cylinders of compressed gases and drums of lubricating oils. From that day on, the ship figured in many of the big-scale operations in the Pacific, and when hostilities had ended, she was at Buckner Bay, Okinawa, from where she set sail for the little island of Malakal, off Kuching, Japan.

The Millicoma sailed from Yokohama via the great circle route to San Francisco on Nov. 6, to end her wartime service as a Naval vessel with decommissioning at the Mare Island Navy Yard.

don't know if it was Alphonso's body or a part of the car."

Edward Markusic, 20, Cornwells Heights, who was walking hand-in-hand with Claire, who was hurled over a fence and dreadfully injured, testified they were pretty happy, laughing and talking.

"Harriet and Al were in back of us," he said. "I was on the shoulder and Claire was walking on the concrete part. I have a hazy recollection of getting up after being thrown to the ground. I never did see any lights behind us. Something just hit us, I guess. The next thing I remember I was in Dr. Wagner's hospital."

John D' Angelo, a private in the army, who also attended the dance and was waiting along the dark, country highway for a hop, testified he saw Alphonso lying near the fence and Claire on the other side of the fence.

John Cordisco, 20, Fleetwings Inc., worker, in his testimony revealed that he saw three people lying on the ground, two of whom looked as if they were dead. "Someone in our group said 'Lookout there's a car coming' and we moved to the side of the highway. I saw the car stop and back-up but didn't know what had happened at that time."

Dr. George T. Fox, who treated Claire at the Harriman Hospital, said she was dying when admitted and that she had a compound fracture of the skull, arm and multiple contusions.

In the absence of Dr. Wagner, the Bristol physician, reading Dr. Wagner's records, said Alphonso suffered from a compound fracture of the skull, neck, both legs and left arm.

Cpl. R. D. Evans, Pa. State Police, who assisted in the investigation, took three pictures of the condition of the defendant's car and two of the highway where the tragedy took place.

TRUMAN AND INFLATION

nual costs of government at least $5,000,000,000 a year—a single item which may prove to make the difference between a balanced and an inflationary national budget.

Everything which raises the cost of government, in our present situation, is directly inflationary and leads us to a point of eventual collapse.

Yet the President has paraded a whole long list of deficit financed schemes such as his version of Full Employment, his National Health program, and some of the most costly plans for peacetime military projects any nation ever considered.

Any one of these would make a balanced budget impossible.

And an unbalanced budget is a deficit budget—a borrowing in this generation against tax moneys charged to the future; but which the future neither can or will ever repay, and which therefore can be made to disappear only by further inflation.

Whatever throws more money into circulation without increasing production is automatically inflationary.

The President has made many such suggestions—a raise to $25 a week for unemployment compensation, a boost in minimum wages, a further 20 per cent raise for all Federal employees, and his intimation to labor unions that they would be backed up in demanding a 30 per cent wage increase from industry.

All these are directly inflationary. So are the various schemes for putting non-existent money into circulation by extending billions of dollars in credit to various foreign nations.

Even the manner in which prices are frozen is itself inflationary. They are not being brought to a low but natural level by means of a full supply of goods on the market. On the contrary the same old doctrine of planned-scarcity is holding down the supply, and the discrepancy between high costs and low prices is to be made up by an indirect subsidy program financed out of taxes and public credit.

Until the entire economic policy of the White House is reversed, inflation will continue at a faster and faster pace.

Mr. Johnson described many of the details of the various cases in which he served in as a court stenographer, involving the usual troubles which the G. I. and his officers fall prey to in this country and overseas. One interesting case involved two witnesses who spoke Polish, the defendant an American G. I., the informers German, and the interpreter for the court a Frenchman. This case was difficult and long-drawn-out before all testimony was secured.

The problems of the army, in the control of the civilian population in both France and Germany were also discussed.

Mr. Johnson was given a rising vote of thanks at the conclusion of the meeting.
